Feeling "Run Down?"

Just suppose that right now you were talking to a physician.

YOU would have to confess to him that somehow you seem to tire very quickly nowadays; that your energy is gone and that now and then you feel jumpy and irritated.

"My dear man!" he would no doubt say, "look at the symptoms logically. Yours is a clear case of strained nerves. We need not go into how you got that way. The climate, hard work, late nights, they can all be to blame—but you want to know how to become your old self again. Why not start taking Sanatogen—it's really great stuff! It's made just for people like you, and I know from long experience that it will do you a lot of good. You have asked too much from your nerves, and with Sanatogen you replace the lost energy quickly."

Over 25,000 physicians are of the opinion that taking Sanatogen is the easy and logical way back to real health and vitality. Why not give Sanatogen a trial? Every chemist sells it. Start taking it now, then you will soon notice its remarkable influence on your health and vitality.

FASHIONS FOR MEN

DIRECT FROM LONDON

London.
Men's dress in England during the coming season will be subdued. Shades of blue and gray in worsteds and silver-gray and drab in chevrons are favourite choice. It is certain that gray and blue-gray will be the predominant colours, apart from sport, where there will be more latitude. In this field green, gray and blue for shirts and ties is the prediction.

The Textiles Section of the British Industries Fair which opened last February and where men's wear trade and buyers come from far afield. Raincoats impervious to water after dry-cleaning will be exhibited. The fabric is said to be treated by an agent which penetrates cotton fibers without coating them, preserving their ventilating properties. It can be used for suitings, so that sports wear can be made in shower-proof styles.

Scottish firms are sending socks in bright tartans and fancy checks, and various checks and patterns of blue to tone with blue sports suits. There is a large display of pullovers, slip-ons, sports shirts, cardigans and sweaters for men; much variety in underwear; bathing suits in new designs and colours. Shoe hues are popular for raincoats, with some attractive double-woven cloths which provide their own lining. Egyptian cotton and fine Botany wools are favoured materials.

LIGHTER WEIGHT

Men are certainly following women, though at a respectful distance, in reducing the weight in clothing of all kinds. At the White City there is a good showing of dressing gowns in lightweight fabrics, with a special eye on the traveller. In silks, rayons and the lightest of cashmeres. Silk lounging jackets are being introduced for spring and summer with contrasting cuffs and roll collars. Every man is keen on ties and will be interested to learn that a cool green stripe appears on blacks and grays; also that wines and blues, either striped or figured, will be popular.

Imitation of British designs has led manufacturers to produce types which cannot readily be copied in cheaper materials. This is a feature of the best grades of striped shirts, on view at the Textile Exhibition. Fabrics, silk, cotton, rayon and wool, are sponsored; while the finish of locknit shirts has been much improved. Light blues and grays are much in evidence. One well-known London house is backing grays with stripes of wine, royal and green.

NEW IN FLANNELS

In the men's wear section there is a wide range of prices, but a stress on quality is expected, in view of the steady improvement in trade and increased incomes. Novelty is to be achieved in the best cloths less by vivid effects and freakish designs than by small, neat patterns indicating quality. After some hesitation manufacturers of flannels expect a call not only for stripes, but checks and small figures. Many people have wondered why flannels should always be plain.

Men's knitted wear is well to the fore. In some ranges plain and novelty yarns combined produce fleck and snarl effects. In spring socks, for once in a way, green is prominent; in golf hose novelty effects take the place of set patterns. Accessories include braces to match shirts, made to prevent perspiration on shoulders. Developments in shirts are promised: the cellular style has acquired smartness and improvements made in shrinking.

LONDON FASHIONS

DESIGNS FOR EVENING GOWNS

Some new styles in dinner and informal evening gowns have been shown at the recent parades and reflect the growing fashion for filmy gowns. Some are in lace and chiffon, some in black net, others in printed materials. At this time of the year there is very little lamé, and the heavy silks and satins have given place to light materials and crêpes, many with a rippled surface. Filmy black is favoured for new dinner dresses. While normally they have light sleeves to the elbow the décolletage is low and the line of the throat and shoulders is distinctly Edwardian.

SPOTTED NETS

New spotted nets are being used both for dinner and evening gowns. There is a large lacquered spot like a twisted circle on a fish net used for a low-cut evening gown with fullness in front and at the sides set in about the knee; a neat but not a tight hip-line is usual. Another spotted net in a small spot is mounted on black crepe satin, which is also used for a sash. A good deal of fine cobweb lace is being worn and is often mounted on crepe satin. Some of the transparent skirts mounted on satins are closely pleated in sunray pleatings all the way round; others have panels of pleating let in. Splashes of colour are given by big posies of flowers at the waistline or by crossing the bodice with coloured satin or velvet ribbon and adding a bouquet of flowers in the same colour. Where no colour is used camellias are the flowers chosen, or else important diamanté ornaments. On one black lace and chiffon evening "ensemble" there is a black suede belt with two diamanté buckles in front and a diamanté clasp holding the pleated chiffon and lace cape. Another black frock has a three-quarter length white satin coat closely pleated and the frock has beaded fans of its material, giving a bustle effect at the back drifting into a train.

PRINTED MATERIALS

Printed materials are being used for some dinner and cinema gowns, and also for evening gowns. The number of unusual prints this year gives a good deal of scope for developing new ideas, but the more amusing prints are kept for afternoon frocks. A big butterfly design in black and white is used for a slim cinema gown with a short cape the inside bordered in rust-red. This cape has a dual purpose, and can be worn folded back on the shoulders with large buttons and showing the red lining. A black and white dinner gown in an unusual design of flowers in clear white arranged horizontally as if floating in water has an elbow-length slit sleeve brought high on the shoulder. Sashes add a note of strong colour to some of the plainer black frocks: a dinner gown in black crêpe de Chine very finely pin-tucked in an interesting design has the bodice lifted at the waistline to show a Spanish double sash in water-green that is finished with a huge sash bow and ends at one side. Some of the new tailored dinner suits made with boleros show this sash in various colours.

STRANDED CURLS MAKE FOR DIGNITY

Character In Hairdressing

Coiffures designed to go with the new spring fashions are exceptionally interesting. Shapely heads show little or no wave at the back. In front the arc of the brow is intercepted by a few tiny "stranded" curls, sometimes of the stand-away type, rising above the hair line, or arranged flatly on the forehead or temple, with or without a side parting.

Usually these new coiffures are lifted to show the ears, although one small stranded curl may be allowed to droop a little over the cheek. There is no careless artistry about a coiffure of this type. Every smooth, sleek tress or curl is in place and owes its becoming curve to a clever setting lotion. These new styles are designed to enhance the beauty of ear and throat lines as well as feature contours, and prove a perfect setting for the modish earring jewels which are now so important an asset in the adornment of well-dressed women.

All heads are no longer going to look alike as has been the case during the vogue of the sensationally parted at the side with turned-under ends at the nape of the neck, and hair brought down over the cheek. Coiffures designed for 1936 bring back the charm and stately dignity seen in the paintings by old masters in the days when hairdressing was an intricate art that often bestowed distinction and beauty to the coiffure.

Modern women may sacrifice a little of the appearance of youth by the new drawn-off-the-brow hairdressing modes, but they certainly gain in character. In some of the new designs the back of the head shows hardly any wave at all, just a smooth sleekness, pointed or rounded at the nape of the neck as best becomes the wearer.

For the "stranded" curls there are special fixing or setting lotions. Naturally curly hair is, of course, much more adaptable to this style of hairdressing, but the newer hairdressing is so clever that the straight head of hair is no longer a drawback to hair beauty. When curls are needed to complete the picture a little artifice will do all that is required.

Softening the brow line with a flat stranded curl or two is really a return to the fringe, but a fringe fashion that makes the most of brow contour and the beauty of eyes and eyebrows.

SOFTENING STYLE

Another way is to cultivate the "baby" curl, a wave of hair drawn up from the brow and curled over towards a side parting. Here curls are used in a characteristic manner, an attractive example of dignity in hairdressing in which the brow line is seen while still keeping the becoming effect of softening curls here and there. With this type of dressing the hair is drawn across the crown and back of the head in one or two slight waves, and is finished with a shaped line at the nape of the neck.

The new vogue of "stranded" curls on a sleekly dressed head of hair is essentially modern, especially if the curls are raised above the outline of the head little open circles standing away from the waves of hair. An expert hairdresser knows how to place the curls becomingly.

A youthful dressing in this style has a little row of upstanding curls across the brow line from the left side parting, down behind the ear and continued in a flatly curled line at the back. The whole effect is excessively smooth, the hair being arranged in a soft wave. This dressing is as becoming to the older woman, as to youth, because it must be perfectly achieved and this perfection makes for dignity.

With silvery hair and shapely heads the new smoothed coiffures with a few cleverly arranged curls are charming. Many women will have to make an important decision when adopting these hairdressing vogues. They may have to forsake some of that youthful appearance bestowed by the longer shingle modes of past seasons, but they will gain in dignity of mind and beauty.

VARIOUS VERSIONS

There are various versions of the dinner suit, and one of the most interesting seen at the parades was in white lace, the pattern outlined in gold; the coat was strictly tailored with long tight sleeves, and there was a narrow gold leather belt on the dress which, when the coat was removed, was a dance frock, floor length, with a full evening décolletage. The new silk jersey with a dull surface is also being used for these dinner suits and another version—one of the most striking—was shown in glittering black sequins with diamanté wings as clasps on the short jacket.

Grey, chalk-white, and violet are in favour at the moment for evening, and also a good many pastel shades which are mostly worn by young girls. For the young there are some new filmy organzas—some in pinks and georgettes with drawn thread effects.

CLOTHES FOR OUT-OF-DOORS

Tailored clothes now show so many experiments as to make the conventional, closely modelled coat and skirt almost old-fashioned.

For instance, there is a short coat with a short pleated bird's tail. There are also short coats with basques and with pleatings on the revers. The boero, shorter still, has been revived. More modern are square padded shoulders. Morning jacket suits are another development; they button rather high, and pockets and revers may be double, slanting, pouch-shaped or hart-shaped.

PIQUE OR MARCELLA

White pique or marcella is much used for giving a sharp line to revers and collars. While the Margot ruffle is seen on the dresses or "ensembles," the Wellsian sharp shoulder line on walking suits has an affinity to a starched revers. The Margot or Marie Stuart bonnet goes with little tailed or basqued coats, and the bowler or the hard coalite shiny straw jutting forward with more modern coats. Silk tailormades for weddings usually incline to the basqued line, and have fanciful fastenings and revers. Skirts with these little coats are tailored much as usual, though in silk there may be a modified circular skirt, or a skirt with pleats fastened down at one side. Some of the little light woollen jacket suits have a school-girl's turn-over collar; this collar is also seen on long coats.

TAILORED BLOUSES

There are finely boxpleated tailored blouses of plain crepe de Chine and fine linen for wearing with plainer tailormades. More elaborate blouses show drawn-thread, and fine tucking. Some little afternoon blouses are in fancy silks to match coat linings. Colour contrast is seen in the piping of pockets of jacket suits or in the linings of capes, boeros, and coats; but it is not general. Soutache braid is also used on coats, but it suits only plain-surfaced materials.

Patent leather court shoes with punched designs are a revival. There are also country shoes with low heels in what is called lug-sage colour beige suede, with a darker leather trimming.

Dress salons are now interspersing their dark tailored ensembles with brilliant notes in colour. Delicate spring-like tints for the summer are stressed, particularly for debutantes.

Brown, always a useful colour, has come into the list again. Very smart are the smaller patterns in brown and white check for the new slim short skirt, the hem finished with a brown wool fringe. This looked well with a finger-tip coat of brown knobby cloth.

There are two new Paris colours that, although somewhat more autumnal than springlike, are dark enough to look chic for the street ensemble. One is almost a prune-mulberry shade; the other is a compromise between an over-ripe blackberry or darkest plum, with

ROSEBUDS AND DAISIES

The rosebud is once again the motif of little girls' fashions. Pale blue organdie embroidered with rosebuds will be favoured for party frocks.

Silk organdie frocks of wild rose pink are made with frills, cording or ruching. A neckline of daisies will be an attractive summer note.

A suggestion of the lovely grey-bloom surface.

The blackberry shade in silk can also look delightful for the elegant robe-de-style or the cinema dress, with skirt of ground-length, worn with a matching chiffon corsage over which comes an openwork bolero of the silk.

Lovely pale tints that recall summer days and green swards make a good selection for the young girl, and are specially successful in some of the lovely new printed crepe, chiffon and cotton designs. Peace blossom has ousted the harder lilac. Sevres blue is chosen instead of peacock, and a lilac-green in lieu of emerald.

Real old sweet pea cottage mixtures give us palest pinks, mauves and a pearly grey, though the larger grown modern flowers strike deeper and stronger tones. The pastel choice now is so large, and so beautifully blended that no one young enough to wear such shades should neglect the chance.

The range in that favourite leader, blue, is very wide, but the paler tones are most popular. Love-in-the-mist, a delicate Sevres, with a whitish-blue cloud colour, are exquisite in the new aerophone and tulles. A crepe satin in white is splashed with a sea-blue flower. Turquoise in its palest tint is still worn.

Perched Leather As Latest Novelty

GLOVES, SHOES, HAND-BAGS AND BELTS

Dimples and puckers adorn the latest leathers destined to be used with the new spring and summer modes as accessories in the form of handbags, gloves, belts and shoes. An ingenious invention in British machinery has made it possible to produce a novel treatment of leather known as the peruche.

This is really a development of the accordion pleating made famous by the dancer Letty Lind in her skirt dances, and of the box, knife and pin-pleated materials used so much in fashions at the present day. The modern peruching, however, provides an almost unlimited variety of designs in curved, waved, diagonal and other surfaces.

In the first instance, the process was applied to light-weight dress materials and fabrics designed for interior decoration, elderdown and cushion covers and curtains. The peruche process is worked in leathers with great success. Perched leathers are being shown in many of the latest spring colours. Pacific, Bengal beige, English green, Cork buff and Carleton, and an important feature is the permanence of the peruche.

Another new and interesting treatment of leather surfaces shown in a range of fashion colours is known as canyon leather.

RADIO NOTES

BBC Annual

We have had the privilege to see an advance copy of the BBC annual for 1936. Will the listener of the future watch an orchestra playing throughout an entire concert? Will talks be accompanied by continuous or intermittent pictures showing the speaker or documentary material which illustrates his theme? What will be the effect on speakers if they have to consider the appearance which they are presenting to unseen listeners? These are some of the most interesting questions discussed in this most illuminating volume.

The largest section of the Annual deals with British broadcasting in 1935, subdivided under programme headings, such as music, drama, variety, and talks, and contains, in addition, informative articles on engineering, finance, and public relations. The whole division forms a comprehensive survey of the activities of the BBC during 1935.

A special section is devoted to the Empire Broadcasting Service.
Here many of the technical difficulties of a shortwave broadcasting service are outlined, and the main principles which underlie the policy of the staff of Empire Department in programme building are fully explained.

The messages broadcast to the Empire by King George V on the occasion of his Silver Jubilee on May 6, 1936, and on Christmas
Day are reproduced "in extenso."

The Annual is profusely illustrated throughout and handsomely bound. Its price is two shillings and sixpence, or three shillings, post free.

EMPIRE BROADCAST-
ING MISCELLANY

The new high-powered regional transmitter of the BBC at Lis-burn, Northern Ireland, was opened on March 20 by his Grace the Governor of Northern Ireland, the Duke of Abercorn, K.G., K.P., in the presence of the Members of the Cabinet of Northern Ireland;
Mr. Robert Norman, Chairman of the BBC, and Sir John Reith, Director-General.

The new station, which operates on a wavelength of 307.1 metres with a power of 100 kW in the aerial, is designed mainly for the benefit of listeners in Northern Ireland, and replaces the 1-kW transmitter which has been in operation since 1924. Incidentally, the opening of this new transmitter provides yet another alternative programme during most hours of the day to listeners with receivers of moderate power throughout Great Britain, and from our own experience its signal can be received with the utmost clarity on a 3-valve receiver in the South of England.

A NOVEL AERIAL
The giant mast—475 feet in height—is of special interest, since the steel structure itself is used as an aerial. It is surmounted by a sliding top mast which has an additional maximum height of 75 feet. This top mast is adjusted in height to suit the wavelength on which the station operates.
The top mast again is surmounted by a ring 26 feet in diameter, a combination which, to our non-technical eyes, gives it the appearance of a giant umbrella, but which, our friends the BBC engineers explain, is "for the purpose of reducing the length of top mast necessary by about 25 feet."

AUCTIONEERS.SCOTS STUDENT'S REPLY

Views Aired

London, April 11

A Glasgow delegate, Mr. J. K.
Napier, expressing the Scots student's viewpoint, said he felt that the Scottish student was always on the defensive in his relations with overseas people.

He thought the problem of social intercourse would be largely overcome if in the admission of students, home as well as overseas, there was rigid exclusion of those really unfitted for a University life and education. "We are carrying as it is," he said, "so much dead weight."

He suggested that a University official, voluntary or otherwise, should be in position to explain to the overseas students on arrival something of the "little prejudices" of the Scottish people, and what he might expect to be up against.

There might be more taking of overseas students into Scots homes but in informal and non-artificial manner.

COMPARISON WITH GERMANY
"It was pointed out by another Scots student that many of the parents of Scottish students were poor and unable to give extensive hospitality."

A South African representative, Mr. C. K. Pillso, comparing personal experience in this country with that in Germany and other countries, severely criticised the Scottish student's "aloof attitude and selfishness."

"You could sit with a Scottish student for months," he said, "and he would say nothing to you."

It was also argued by representatives from the Colonies that they had a right to expect social intercourse with students in the Mother Country.

A PROBLEM OF NUMBERS
Correction of any impressions that might be given that English and Scottish people generally were not friendly towards overseas students was made by Mr. A.
Aaron, Warden of the Students' International Club, Glasgow, in the course of further discussion last night.

Mr. Aaron, who is convener of the Conference Committee, said the problem was one simply of numbers. At any University where overseas students were in smaller numbers than in Glasgow or Edinburgh the students were made perfectly happy.

Mr. G. G. Thomson, Liverpool
University, during the discussion, said he thought it was felt by the conference that the University staffs did not do their full share.

Two boys were fighting in a quiet sidestreet. One of the youngsters was kneeling on the other, hitting him savagely.

On being told that he shouldn't hit anyone when he was down, the child who was getting the best of the fight replied: "Well, what do you think I got him down for?"

WAR OFFICE TO SEE PEACE FILM

"Controversial," Says
Censor

London, Apr. 3.

A controversy is likely to rage round the withholding by the Film Censor of a certificate to show a three-minute film appealing to the peoples of Great Britain and the world to act together and ensure peace by reason.

The publishers have been notified that "exception has been taken by the examiners," and that the Censor regards the film as being "controversial." He declares his intention of submitting it to the War Office.

There was a private show at the Crown Theatre, Wardour Street, London, last night, when the film was seen by Mr. H. G. Wells, among others.

"It would be outrageous if a film of such public importance were suppressed," Mr. Wells said afterwards.

Many cinema managers have already applied to show the film, which would be distributed free of cost, and members of Parliament of all parties are to be given an opportunity of seeing the film at Bush House to-day.

The League of Nations Union has circulated its members in each of its 3000 branches with leaflets describing the film.

It is understood that local Watch Committees can take upon themselves the responsibility of showing the film, but that their decision can be over-ruled by the Home Office.

The film opens with an appeal to the people of Britain, and shows aeroplane, torpedoes, bombs, warships, tanks, and troops in action.
A mother bending over a wash-tub and a business man then express their views, and the audience are requested to write to their M.P.s and demand peace.

Laurel And Hardy
In "Bohemian Girl"

The fact that Laurel and Hardy are the stars of "The Bohemian Girl" is sufficient warning not to expect, in the M.G.M. film, anything like Balfe's much-played opera. It is, however, surprisingly faithful to the old story and from an entertainment point of view, is first class.

A preview of the film, which is the coming attraction at the King's and Alhambra Theatres, reveals it as a cleverly interwoven mixture of melo-drama and absurdity. That it retains strong continuity despite the attempt to mix these incompatibles, is due to the excellent direction and its aim to be nothing more than what it is described as—a comedy version of the opera.

It is not an elaborate production.
The gypsies are all stage gypsies, good-looking, romantic, fine-voiced and daintily clad; the settings are stage settings, painted drop curtains of rustic scenes and marble halls and the voices are all pleasant but distinctly un-operatic.
This simplicity and obvious arti-ficialness is perhaps the secret of "The Bohemian Girl's" success.

Naturally, although there is a resemblance to the opera story, many liberties have been taken.
That good natured rogue, Devil-shoof, is played by Antonio Moreno, matinee idol of two decades ago,
as a juvenile lead. He disappears early however, after he elopes with Hardy's wife, Mae Busch.
There is no romance and Arline returns to her father at the end, unattached. This however is good for it overcomes the opera's absurd discrepancy in ages.

All the popular songs are included—"I Dreamt I Dwell in Marble Halls," "The Heart Bowed Down," "When Other Lips" and the rollicking gypsy chorus.

Jacqueline Wells, a newcomer, plays Arline and Laurel and Hardy go through the customary fooling.

DESIRE

Because Hollywood remembers a good picture, Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper have been brought together again on the screen.

They made "Morocco" a love story of the Islamic East, five years ago, shortly after Miss Dietrich reached Hollywood. It had a charm and ardour. The memory lingered.

Paramount has since kept a weather eye open for another story that would be a suitable vehicle for these stars. After a long search, one was found and made into a picture. It is called "Desire," which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

In "Desire," Miss Dietrich plays the part of a clever thief, who steals a rope of pearls in Paris and flees. She encounters in her flight an American engineer, Gary Cooper.

George Arliss in "The Last Gentleman" United Artists picture showing to-day at the Star Theatre.

"LAST GENTLEMAN"

From a man seeking to make millions to a man seeking to give millions away. That is the latest screen transition made by George Arliss.

In his new starring production for Joseph M. Schenck and Darrell
F. Zanuck's 20th Century Pictures,
"The Last Gentleman," Mr. Arliss is a rich old man who is trying to pick an heir.

"The Last Gentleman" is further at variance from the preceding film in that it takes the star from the field of drama into that of comedy. Mr. Arliss has several times before proved his versatility by stepping from one medium to another and considers it one of the reasons for his continued popularity.

Supporting him in this United Artists release are such artists as Edna May Oliver, Janet Beecher, Charlotte Henry of "Alice in Wonderland" fame, Ralph Morgan,
Edward Ellis, Frank Albertson, Rafaela Ottiano, Donald Meek and Joseph Cawthorn.

Leonard Praskins adapted "The Last Gentleman" to the screen from an original play by Katharine Clugston. Sidney Lanfield directed the film in association with Maude T. Howell.

"HERE COMES TROUBLE"

At The King's

With rapid-fire romance, drama and comedy, "Here Comes Trouble" the new Fox picture, showing at the King's Theatre to-day tell a grand story of an engine room Romeo, and his manful cutting in a ship full of larcenous luxury cruisers.

Lanky Paul Kelly, who does some magnificent work in his first comedy role, is the hero of this picture, while pert and vivacious Arline Judge proves a fitting romantic partner in the role of his cute-cutting sweetie.

They're on a liner plying between Havana and New York, and they make love by quarrelling with each other when they're not handling contentious passengers. When they get to Havana, Kelly and his sidekick, Sammy Cohen, sample the pleasures of the city and wind up in a scrape that serves to de-mote Kelly from third engineer to coal heaver.

In the meantime, there's a conspiracy afoot, with two pairs of thieves vying for a $100,000 gem that Gregory Ratoff has in the ship's safe. Mona Barrie, who is plotting with Halliwell Hobbes, is trapped in a boiler room explosion, saved by Kelly. He wins back his rank and the undisputed admiration of Miss Barrie.

But when she and Hobbes manage to get hold of the gem and place the blame on the other crooks, she secrets it in Kelly's cigarette lighter. Then she invites the surprised sailor to visit her at home when they reach New York.

The film reaches its climax when Kelly becomes involved in a miniature riot at Miss Barrie's home because the ruby has slipped out of the cigarette lighter. Just as Kelly is going down for the count under the onslaughts of five burly gentlemen, Arline Judge and Sammy Cohen come to the rescue with the police. The close shows the stars too happy to argue for once, and happily making up.

TWO FISTED

"Two Fisted," Paramount romantic comedy featuring Lee Tracy, Roxcoe Karns and Gail Patrick, next change at the Queen's Theatre, traces the amusing adventures of two fighting fighters who crash Park Avenue society.

The screen play was adapted by Sam Hellman, Frances Martin and Eddie Moran.

SABOTAGE PENALTY

Home Office Reply To M.P. Questioner

In the House of Commons on March 25 Mr. P. W. Donner (Con., Basingstoke) asked the Home Secretary whether, in view of the many successful attempts to damage wilfully the ships of the Royal Navy, he would consider taking the necessary steps to amend the Malicious Damage to Property Act of 1861 so as to increase the inadequate penalties under Section 43 of that Act in order to deter further attempts of sabotage by prolonging the period of imprisonment, at present limited to seven years, or such action.

Mr. G. Lloyd: I am not aware of any grounds for thinking that the persons responsible for such damage as has occurred have been in any way influenced by the feeling that the existing penalties may be lightly regarded, or that the person who is willing to risk a sentence of seven years' penal servitude would be deterred by any increase in the maximum penalty which may be imposed.

It was stated at the Admiralty on March 25 that there is no truth in reports that a case of suspected sabotage had occurred in the cruiser Cumberland at Chatham.

THE MEN IN THE TARTAN BONNETS

London, April 3.

A correspondent who spent some time on Saturday night in the West End streets during the Calde-donian occupation noted that five out of six of the men with the clanless tartan bonnets had, by their own account, built the Queen Mary. They told everybody that they told everybody that a great ship she was and what she was going to do with the Western Ocean speed records once she was warmed up. Some of them said that the were going down to Southampton themselves to make sure that the English were treating her with the respect she deserved.

If not, well, they would "sort them."

Clydebank could never have held a third of the men there who were claiming to have built the great ship, but many of the shipyard men were about and it gave London people something to think of in their City complacency as they watched the rollicking antics of these smallish, angular men with their grotesque hats and masoch-tism and remembered what they had built and put before the world.

BANGING THE BAWKES

Another thing noticed on Saturday in the football crowd by this correspondent was Scotsmen—probably Aberdeen men—throwing pennies to the London children from a bus that was filling up in Southampton Row. The sight attracted a crowd, and the police had to put a stop to it. In another part of London three Scots sold their tam-o'-shanters to street musicians and wondered at the enterprise of the English as they saw the noise-makers in their new get-ups collecting a good haul from their fellow-Scots.

BRIBERY PLOT IS ALLEGED

Police Story Of Raid In Restaurant

MONEY PAID BY DIVANS

An attempt to bribe practically the whole of the Chinese revenue staff and to extract protection money from 1,000 opium divans in Hong Kong was alleged by the Assistant Attorney-General (Mr. E. H. Williams) when he appeared for the police yesterday in the charges against eight defendants at the Central Magistrate's court.

Mr. Williams told how a police party led by European detectives had raided a room in a restaurant at West Point a few minutes after a $500 bribe had allegedly been offered to a group of Chinese revenue officers.

EIGHT MEN CHARGED

The men charged were Albert Randall, 27, unemployed, of Prospect Place, Li Yick, 32, shopkeeper, Leung Yau, 42, unemployed, Ho Loi, 27, salesman, Ho Shum, 29, unemployed, Li Kwai-yick, 40, unemployed, Kwan Sing, 38, unemployed and Ngan Cheong, 59, unemployed.

The eight men were charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour with having conspired to bribe Revenue Officer Mo Kang and other revenue officers with intent to influence them against prosecuting or giving information which might lead to the prosecution of certain offenders under the Opium Ordinance.

Randall was also charged with having given a bribe of $400 to R. O. Mo Kang.

The Assistant Attorney-General (Mr. E. H. Williams) appeared for the police, Mr. W. A. Mackinlay appeared for Randall and Mr. W. M. Brown for the other defendants.

Opening the police case Mr. Williams said that on March 13, Tam Wai, a revenue officer, received information and reported it to Senior Revenue Officer Mo Kang who in turn conferred with Chief Preventive Officer Buller. Further information was received on March 17 and 18 and passed on to Mr. Buller.

"LAM TO"

On March 20, said Mr. Williams, Mo Kang received a telephone call from a man who called himself "Lam To," which, said Mr. Williams, was the Chinese version of Randall. The speaker said he knew of a good opportunity for Mo Kang and invited him to visit him at Prospect Place.

Acting under instructions Tam Wai saw Randall who said he had sent someone to collect money from opium divans, asked the revenue officer for help and said he would give him several hundred dollars.

"On March 26," said Mr. Williams, "Mo Kang was asked by Randall, by telephone, to go to a Chinese restaurant and look for a room with the sign 'Lam' on the door. He did so, accompanied by two other revenue officers and there saw Randall, Li Yick and Leung Yau. Randall said he had a proposition to make, as he was desirous of collecting money from the Hong Kong opium divans and dividing the money into three shares, one for the European revenue officers, one for the Chinese revenue officers and one for himself."

The sum of $500 a month was suggested, went on Mr. Williams, who alleged that Randall said that between $200 and $300 had already been collected and that the money would be paid in a few days.

"Randall also said he knew a heroin pill dealer who would pay $2,000," said Mr. Williams. "This was clearly for some form of protection."

IMPORTATION OF OPIUM

"He made the first proposition in a loud voice to Mo Kang, but the second was said in a low voice. He also mentioned the possible importation of opium from Macao with the connivance of the revenue officers."

Mr. Williams went on to say that it was stated that Li Yick had charge of the collections and was collecting money from 800 divans. A book giving the names of opium divans was produced and given to Mo Kang.

Randall also gave Mo Kang a piece of paper with the word "Bob" written on it, alleged Mr. Williams. This was stated to be a password by which revenue officers would know from which divans money was being collected.

On March 30, continued Mr. Williams, Mo Kang received a telephone message from Randall and as a result they met in a room on the China Emporium when a rendezvous with all the Chinese revenue officers was fixed for the next day.

By this time, said Mr. Williams, the matter had been reported to the police and a Chinese detective posing as a revenue officer, recently transferred from the New Territories was ordered to accompany the other revenue officers to the rendezvous.

The party met at the To Yuen restaurant, West Point, on March 31 and had tea. The waiters were asked to leave the room and then, Mr. Williams alleged, Randall said that money was being collected from 70 to 80 per cent. of the divans and produced $500 in notes and coins. This was handed to Mo Kang.

POLICE ARRIVED

At this stage the detective posing as the revenue officer left the room and returned shortly after with a party of police led by Detective Inspectors J. and M. Murphy. The $500 was pointed out to Randall who allegedly replied "We are forming a club." Defendants were then arrested and taken to the Central Police Station.

"Randall then started to write a statement," declared Mr. Williams. "He did not complete it then but did so the next day and signed it. In this statement he claimed that Leung Yau had approached him in connection with the opium and heroin business and that Leung had made all the arrangements, but this statement is at variance with the known facts."

"Randall also claimed that Leung was at the back of the plan and that he (Randall) had joined in merely to get information about opium and heroin which he intended to pass on to the United States Treasury Department."

Li Yick, on being charged, said Mr. Williams, declared that Leung had asked him to write the characters in the book but that he was totally unaware of what purpose.

Leung said he intended going into the opium and heroin business and the other defendants disclaimed any knowledge of the conspiracy.

Mr. Williams concluded his outline by saying the police alleged Randall was the prime mover in company with Li and Leung.

EVIDENCE CORROBORATED

Evidence by Tam Wai bore out Mr. Williams' opening remarks. He said he received certain information on March 13 and 17 and passed it on to Mo Kang and Mr. Buller. Acting on instructions he went with another revenue officer to Randall's home on March 20 when Randall said he wanted to give the revenue officers a good opportunity and that he had appointed people to collect money from all the opium divans in Hong Kong. Co-operation with the revenue officers was necessary and he (Randall) had already fixed matters with the European officers.

SUMMARY ACTION

Bank Sued

A further adjournment was made yesterday at the Summary Court in the case in which the action brought by Fung Kui Hoi against the National City Bank of New York and one of its former employees, Lai Sin Chow, for the return of $1,000, alleged to have been deposited with the bank was resumed after a month and a half, before Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden.

The plaintiff's claim was that on June 30, 1927, he deposited with the defendant bank a sum of $2,000 in the savings department. He was given a deposit book and it was a term of the deposit that the bank would pay an interest of four per cent. per annum. Interest had been credited in the said account from time to time and various sums withdrawn, and on May 2, 1933, the balance due to the plaintiff as shown in the deposit book was $1,000. The plaintiff had demanded payment of this sum together with the interest accrued but the defendant bank failed and neglected to pay the money, he claimed.

The claim against the second defendant was that he had falsely represented that he had the authority of the bank to receive the money deposited and to issue the deposit book, and that he had converted such sum to his own use, less the sum of $1,323.35, received by the plaintiff. The plaintiff also claimed from this defendant interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum on the said sum of $2,000.

Evidence was given by Mr. S. Church, sub-manager of the bank in which he stated that he had seen the two books in question but he was unable to find any records regarding the corresponding entries. As far as plaintiffs record was concerned there was none to show that he did business with the defendant firm since 1927.

The case was adjourned.

BEGGING CHARGE

Married Woman Found On Ferry

After having paid her first class fare to board a Star Ferry, an old woman went the rounds of passengers travelling on the same boat, begging for alms. She first presented a letter stating her hard lot.

A sequel to the affair was heard at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when a married woman, 50 years of age, named Lee Yee Sze, appeared before Mr. E. Himsforth in the Second Court, charged with begging.

Detective Sergeant Kinnear said that the woman boarded the Meridian Star at 12.05 p.m. on April 29, after having paid her own first class fare. While the vessel was crossing the harbour she went round to passengers, showing a letter. The woman was arrested by a seaman, employed on the ferry.

When taken to the station $1.05 was found on her person. Accused was fined $1.05.

Mr. Souza, an inspector of the Star Ferry Company, appeared as the complainant.

Tam said he referred Randall to Mo Kang.

On March 28, Tam continued, he went to a Chinese restaurant and saw Mo Kang, Randall, Li and Leung. Randall asked them to unite in collecting money from opium divans and stated that about 800 divans were paying. Between $1,000 and $2,000 had been collected. The object, he said, was not only to collect money but also to sell opium to the divans.

Tam said he noticed Mo Kang and Randall whispering but did not hear what they said.

On March 30, Tam went on, he met Randall and Li in the China Emporium where Randall asked him to bring all the Chinese revenue officers to the To Yuen restaurant the next day when the addresses of the divans would be given. The appointment was kept and when all the defendants were present Randall announced that his collectors had come and that if everyone united there was no fear that money would not be earned. He asked the revenue officers to select one of their number to receive the $500.

MO KANG SELECTED

Mo Kang was selected and Randall produced eight rolls of 10-cent coins, four $100 notes and six $10 notes, making $500.

Li Yick told Tam that there were about 1,000 opium divans in Hong

The suit, which was undefended, was brought on the grounds of alleged infidelity.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Mr. Peter H. Shu, appeared for petitioner.

Kong and Randall added that about 70 or 80 per cent. of them were paying. Randall produced a book containing the addresses of the divans for the perusal of the revenue officers and gave it to him saying that he had a copy.

Randall then gave the money to Mo Kang. A Chinese detective who was posing as a revenue officer immediately left the room and shortly afterwards a party of detectives arrived.

Mr. Williams objected to Mr. Mackinlay questioning Tam about the source of his information and Mr. Balfour refused to allow the question.

To Mr. Mackinlay Tam said the only reason he could give for divan keepers paying money to Randall, a civilian, was that Randall had misrepresented himself as a revenue officer and demanded money so that the divans would not be raided.

Mr. Mackinlay:—Are revenue officers in the habit of doing that?—No, never.

Mr. Brown deferred his cross-examination to the next hearing. The hearing was adjourned to Monday, March 4.

HOTELS' AFFAIRS

Reduction In Capital Sought?

SHAREHOLDERS TO CONFER

At the extraordinary general meeting of shareholders of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., to be held on May 27, the Directors are recommending the reduction of the capital of the Company from $15,000,000 to $11,250,000, by reducing the nominal of shares from $10.00 to $7.50.

In a circular issued to shareholders, it is stated that for several years past operative profits have not been produced on a scale sufficient after depreciation charges, etc., have been met, to enable a return by way of dividend to be made to the Shareholders. Undoubtedly the very depressed trading conditions in the Far East which have been encountered over a lengthy period have contributed largely to the situation, but there are other factors now apparent, the existence of which emphasises the difficulties to be faced in an endeavour to earn a fair return in the future on the Capital invested as at present constituted, and remedial measures are clearly called for.

The properties comprised in the Company's Assets embody several buildings which, although included in the financial figures at substantial sums, can only be regarded under present circumstances as more or less obsolete, and they should be written down to nominal amounts. This fact applies also to much of the furniture and equipment and to the plant and machinery installed in certain of the Company's establishments. Normally the assets mentioned could have been expected to retain a longer period of satisfactory income earning life than the previous remarks indicate. During the past few years, however, revolutionary ideas have pervaded methods pertaining to Hotel's construction and their equipment, and a new standard of interpretation of "modern accommodation" has been created in the demands of the Hotel patron. Accordingly the fact that some of the Company's Assets have reached the obsolescent stage at a rate rapidly accelerated by changes in fashion and style must be recognised.

TO WRITE DOWN ALL ASSETS

The aim of your Board in formulating the reconstruction proposals, which are set out here, has been to write down all Assets to figures commensurate with their possible earning capacity under the changed conditions already commented upon.

The Board by a majority therefore, recommend for the consideration of shareholders the following—

Write off from the Book Value as at 31st December, 1935—Buildings, $5,980,397.58; furniture and fixtures, $2,191,427.05; machinery and plant, $270,908.73; linen, crockery and glass-ware, $258,820.91; Investments, $103,971.35; construction in progress, $48,861.72; steam launch, $2,350; total, $8,856,737.34.

Write up over Book Values as at 31st December, 1935—Land, $550,980.16.

BOOK FIGURES ADJUSTED

On the other hand the Board has adjusted the book figures relating to your properties so as to bring land valuations to amounts which in their opinion conform more nearly to present day values, having regard both to location and to potential earning capacity. The net result is an increase in the book value of land by $550,980.16.

It is deemed prudent however, to retain the equivalent of this accretion in Reserve, and in this connection it will be observed from the accompanying statement that of the sum of $1,000,000.00 General Reserve unappropriated in the Reconstruction proposals, an amount of $550,000.00 has been allocated to a Land Reserve.

It is proposed to effect this writing down by—Transferring from Land Reserve, $1,434,451.43; Building Reserve, $1,083,897.71; General Reserve, $2,000,000.00; Depreciation Reserve, $800,000.00; Profit and Loss Account, $2,740.54; by cancelling capital to the extent of $2.50 per share on 1,193,867 shares paid up, $2,984,667.50; total, $8,305,757.18.

In the opinion of the Board the effect of the foregoing is to present a true perspective of the position of the Company in view of the abnormal times through which we are passing. Consider-

LUCRATIVE HOBBY

Local Steno Combats Depression

TURNS TO ART

In these days of depression and retrenchment, the average person has at the back of the mind, a vague fear of what the future will hold if the worst were to happen.

A representative of the "Daily Press" had the privilege last Tuesday of observing first hand the enterprise of a local stenographer who quite recently joined the ever-growing army of Hong Kong's unemployed.

About six months ago, Miss Sarita Remedios was employed in a large concern dealing in hardware and office equipment. Owing to the hard times, she found herself out of a job. Realizing the difficulties of finding other employment, she cast her mind about other fields to conquer. Some time ago, in Shanghai, she had a hobby—not the usual type of hobby one usually associates with girls—but a distinctly artistic, and as she has now shown, a most useful and lucrative one.

PLASTIC PAINTING

Plastic painting does not signify very much to the average person, but see the beautifully executed specimens in her shop in Nathan Road and be thoroughly convinced as to the potentialities opened up by this unusual sphere of art. Cushions, fire-screens, luncheon-sets, trays and children's clothes are dauntingly hand-painted and besides being most ornamental, lose nothing of their usefulness as they not only survive the roughest usage by amahs, but in most cases, the painting outlasts the material on which it is done. In the way of glass-ware, there are artistic witch bowls, cocktail glasses and numerous other items in every conceivable pattern and design.

However, the most interesting part of Miss Remedios's work is the fact that she holds classes. Quite a large number of ladies, who would ordinarily find time hanging heavily on their hands, learn to spend useful hours learning to turn out the beautiful little odds and ends which go to make a dainty room and one can well imagine the pride and joy with which, at a party, they point to some small article which has been the subject of admiring remarks and say that it was done by themselves.

Miss Remedios and her partner, Miss Freda Dixon, are to be commended for their enterprise and are richly deserving of all the support that can be given them.

MUI TSAI WAS UNREGISTERED

The keeping of an unregistered mui-tsai cost Fok Po-chun, 46, widow of Fat Hing Street, $250 yesterday when she appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy.

Inspector Fraser of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, said the mui-tsai, Ng Nui, aged 12, had been sold by her father for $80 three years ago on the understanding that she should be kept for eight years without wages. The girl had not been ill-treated and did not want to go back to her father.

Defendant admitted the charge saying she wanted the girl to return but her father would not return the money.

Inspector Fraser said he had been asked to press the charge.

able saving of depreciation in the future will be effected thereby, and in consequence the Company should return to a dividend-paying basis much earlier than would otherwise be the case.

PROFIT SHOWN

The annual report of the Company states that the profit on Working Account for the year 1935 amounted to $430,375.55. The balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account (including the sum of $289,224.90 brought forward from the previous year) after charging interest, insurance, maintenance and repairs, etc., providing for certain depreciation and for bad and doubtful debts, amounted to $342,001.65, which your Directors recommend carrying forward to next year's account.

Directors—Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell retires by rotation, but, being eligible, offers himself for re-election.

LOCAL WEDDING

Weightman-Hopkins

St. John's Cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday when Miss Phyllis Vera Clarke Weightman, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. Weightman and Mrs. Astle of Portsmouth became the bride of Mr. Hubert Carew Hopkins of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China. The bridegroom is the second son of Mr. F. J. and the late Mrs. Hopkins of Dawlish.

The Rev. H. W. Baines officiated at the ceremony.

Entering the Cathedral on the arm of Mr. A. Brearley, who gave her away in marriage, the bride looked charming in a Lelong modelled white crepe gown set off with a large picture hat in cire wax satin. She carried white carnations.

Miss K. M. Moore, as bridesmaid, wore a Lanvin modelled dress in Pagarotte and blue organza set off with a large Berge hat.

The Matron of Honour, Mrs. B. E. Elliott, chose a navy blue ensemble with white leaf pattern, a Lanvin creation. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The duties of best man were undertaken by Mr. Oscar Eager. Appropriate music was rendered on the organ by Mr. Lindsay Lafford.

Following the Cathedral ceremony, a reception was held at Charter House, 17 Peak Road, the residence of Mr. A. Brearley. On leaving for the honeymoon which is to be spent in Japan, Mrs. Hopkins wore an apple green dress with cape.

ATTEMPTS AT SUICIDE

Unemployed Sad Plight

Without friends or relatives in the Colony, a penniless unemployed Chinese lad who was born in Hong Kong but spent his life in Fukien decided to end his life. He made two attempts at hanging himself, both of which were unsuccessful.

Yesterday, before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy, Wong Tin-shu, 20 years of age, unemployed was charged with attempting to commit suicide by hanging himself in Ho Mun Tin on April 28, and with attempting suicide by a similar method on April 20 at San Luk Kan, Hung Hom.

Following a recital of the facts relating to the two attempts, the Magistrate said that although in English law attempting to take one's own life was looked upon just as seriously taking another person's life, he did not wish to send the accused to prison. Instead he would adopt two courses open to him. He would bind the accused over in a sum for a year against a similar offence, and he would order the accused to be sent back to Fukien at the expense of the Government.

Inspector A. H. Elston said that the accused was found hanging from a doorway at Mosque Junction, by a constable, on April 20. He was cut down and recovered. Eight days later, the accused attempted to hang himself from a tree in Ho Mun Tin, but recovered after treatment. Enquiries show that the accused was born in Hong Kong but had spent his life in Fukien. He came here a week ago to find work, but was unsuccessful. Starvation, according to the accused had driven him in his attempts to end his life.

A CHARITABLE COURSE

Continuing Inspector Elston said that the accused had been under medical attention since his first attempt; the report from the doctor stating that he was uncertifiable. The accused had no friends or relatives in the Colony.

The Secretariat of Chinese Affairs had enquired into the case, and were of the opinion that, if clemency was shown, the Police be directed to send the accused back to Fukien. The fare was $6.00.

The Magistrate after addressing the accused upon English law, as stated above, said that although the accused must have been warned after his first attempt, he had again chosen to repeat the offence. The accused was therefore liable for imprisonment. However taking into consideration the circumstances of the case, he (the Magistrate) would adopt two courses open to him. The accused was therefore bound over in the sum of $150 for one year, and ordered to be sent back to Fukien.

The Magistrate: I am going to give you your fare. You will be sent off by the police.

INDUSTRIES FAIR

Dutch Business Brisk

The 34th Royal Netherlands Industries Fair was held in Utrecht from the 10th to the 15th March 1936 and business-transactions, as well as the number of visitors were very satisfactory from the first day till the last.

Although so far 1936 has not been economically favourable for the Netherlands and the depression still remains, notwithstanding slight improvements elsewhere there was much activity at the Fair. Business was brisk and visitors who attended in large numbers were optimistic.

For several articles an unmistakable tendency for higher prices existed.

The large attendance of foreign buyers, chiefly from Belgium, England and Germany attracted special attention.

Building Materials were in evidence and prices had come to lower levels.

"Art in Industry" participated for the first time, showing the public the possibility of manufacturing articles with perfect good taste for prices within reach of large classes of buyers.

Special attention was drawn to the participation of the Dairy-Bureau with dairy-products.

The Machinery group attracted wide interest and received many enquiries.

Those Participated Participants numbered 1645, viz. 1355 from the Netherlands and 290 from abroad.

The complete list follows here: The Netherlands 1355, United States of America 11, Canada 27, Belgium 54, Denmark 2, Germany 84, Great Britain 16, Estonia 13, Finland 1, France 21, Italy 1, Norway 3, Austria 41, Czechoslovakia 1, Sweden 9, Switzerland 6.

The Department of Colonies was largely devoted to rubber and the manufacture of rubber-articles.

The next Fair will be held in Utrecht from the 8th up to and including the 17th September 1936.

INDIAN PARTNERS AGREE

Echo Of Winding-Up Order

An application for a stay of the winding-up order made against the O.K. Oldumal and Watumull, Ltd., on March 10 last was brought before Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell at the Supreme Court yesterday.

The applicant was Mr. G. Odhar-mal, one of the original partners of the firm, on whose petition the winding-up order was made. Appearing for the applicant, Mr. Mr. M. A. da Silva, said that a compromise had been arrived at between the two parties whereby his client was to retire from the Company on payment of $50,000 to him.

In granting the order, His Lordship said: I see the Official Receiver (Mr. J. B. Prentiss) is here and I take it he is only too glad and glad the matter has ended so satisfactorily, according to the terms of the compromise.

Kan Koy alias Kan Wan Koy, 24, unemployed charged with, (a) housebreaking at No. 41, Mercer Street, 2nd floor, and the larceny of one jacket, one pocket watch and chain and one fountain pen, (b) illegal pawning of one gold watch at the Kung Wo Pawn shop, and (c) illegal pawning of one jacket at the Tai On Pawnshop, appeared before Mr. Burgess at the Central Court yesterday.

Det. Sgt. T. Cashman for the prosecution stated that on the morning of the 28th the complainant, Kan Sheng, a foid at the Loong Shing Chinese Bank, arose from bed and found his pocket missing. The articles stolen were in the pockets.

He made a report to the Police Station, on Wednesday acting on inquiries the defendant was arrested. The defendant had been a tenant in the house before and though the door was bolted he knew how to open it. The defendant took a detective to the Kung Wo pawnshop where he had pawned the watch and to the Tai On pawnshop in Shamshuipo where he had pawned the jacket for 50 cents. The watch chain was found in a jeweller's shop where it had been melted.

The total value of the articles was $195 all of which had been recovered. The defendant had $60 in his possession the proceeds of the sale of the watch and chain.

Mr. Burgess ordered that the $60 be returned to the various tradesmen who had bought the articles in proportion.

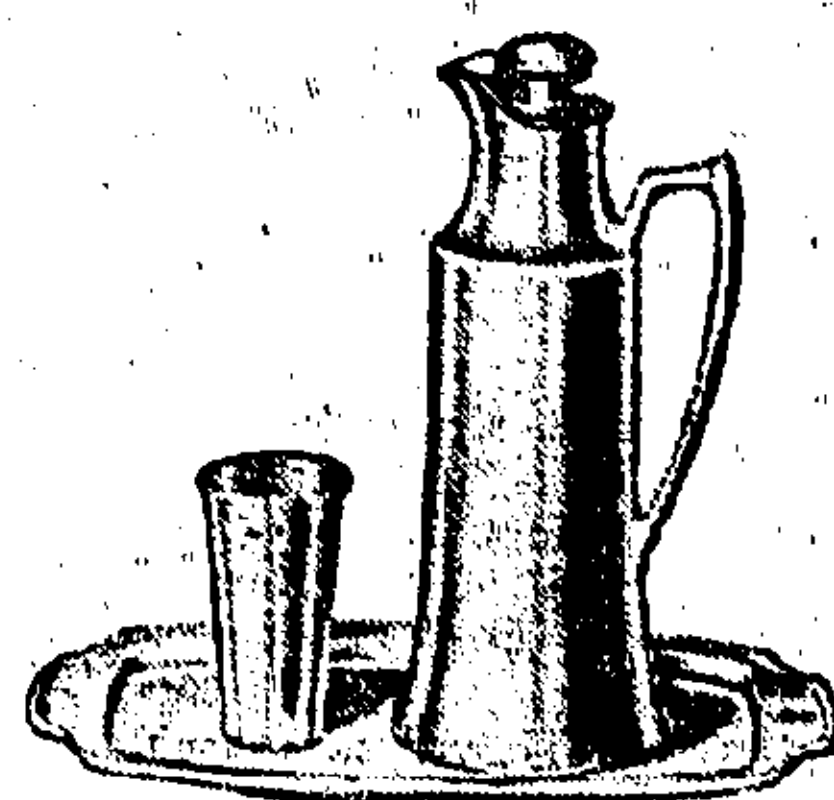

Defendant was sentenced to two months on the first charge and fined $50 or six weeks on each of the other two charges.

CHINESE PRESS SUSPICIONS

Japan's Intentions In North China

Shanghai, Apr. 30.

A smoke-screen concealing the conversion of North China into a "second Manchukuo" is how the "Ta Wan Pao" describes the reported Sino-Japanese anti-Communist Pact.

It adds that the Japanese are using a non-existent Communist menace in order to gain a foothold in North China against any possible threat from Russia to Tokyo's interests.

The paper pessimistically declares its belief that the East Hopel autonomy regime will not be abolished, but will merely emerge in another form, still under Japanese control.

It was earlier reported that China was dargaining with Japan for the abolition of the autonomous government in Hopel and that in return an agreement would be signed in respect to Japanese collaboration in anti-Communist defence.

MEMORIALS TO KING GEORGE

The proposals for memorials to King George V. are under the consideration of the Lord Mayor's committees. Each of the projects for "a statue in some noble setting" would achieve a fine piece of planning, and each of the philanthropic schemes would make a great addition to the public welfare. What are the most fitting memorials of a monarch whose service to the State and loyalty to the Church and devotion to the people were steadfast and unrelenting? The schemes are available for public estimation. There is complete agreement that there must be a statue. The discussion begins with the selection of a site. But here again there is general agreement that a site worthy and appropriate, if it is adequately to represent King George's place in a realm of constitutional government and at the head of a great Empire, and also the honour in which he was held by all the millions of his people, does not now exist. It must be made. Three situations have been thought of and two are in close rivalry. One would be obtained by clearing away the houses in Old Palace Yard and Abingdon Street and making an open space which would afford majestic views of Westminster Abbey and Henry VIII's Chapel, and across the way, of the Houses of Parliament and Westminster Hall. The Chapter House and the almost obscured Jewel Tower would also be opened to better view and enjoyment. This is indeed a splendid conception, worshipping and politically inspiring; and if it be objected—rather strangely—that the splendour of the space would dwarf the statue, the answer no doubt will be that wherever the statue is placed its own character and its precise position will determine its worthiness. Moreover the site and its new setting, equally with the statue, would be the memorial.

The second proposal, to enlarge Parliament Square by the inclusion of the land on which Westminster House has stood and to place the statue there, has inherent attractions, but it could scarcely be so distinctive a memorial as a new open space. The perfecting of Parliament Square should not be neglected in any case and if the Abingdon Street proposal became the principal scheme, it might also be possible to spare from the memorial fund a sum sufficient to make the Parliament Square improvement secure. All of the four philanthropic schemes are good. The idea of the acquisition of land for national parks is spacious and in harmony with that revival of love for the open country which city life has never destroyed, but it can perhaps be trusted to progress under other auspices. An endowment of medical research and healing would contribute to the lessening of pain and the increase of the health of the nation; and cottage homes for the aged would be an exceedingly great boon. Both these are projects assured of sympathetic acquiescence. The need for hostels for transferred workers is apparently so temporary and sectional that it scarcely satisfies the requirements for a permanent national memorial. But here are seven schemes, all of them good, and it remains to decide which are the best and which are likely to command most public favour.

STEEL WORKS IN CANTON

Brassert Sending Out Engineers

London, Apr. 30.

The British Engineers, Messrs. H. A. Brassert and Co. Ltd., have obtained a contract which may ultimately be worth £2,000,000 in connection with the Canton Government's scheme for erecting an iron and steel works despite strong American and Continental competition. The Nanking Government's approval has been obtained.

Messrs. Brassert are sending out six engineers as soon as possible to advise on the technical and economic possibilities of the scheme preparatory to building of the works.

It is understood that good deposits of iron ore have been discovered at Wan Fu.

[4382]

EXTENDED CREDIT

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Apr. 30.

Several big engineering contractors in Europe and America competed to set up an iron and steel works in Canton; it was revealed to-day, but only Messrs. H. A. Brassert and Co. Ltd., of London is inclined to extend credit to the Kwangtung Provincial Government and therefore secures the contract.

An investigation of the project by Arthur McKee Inc. of Cleveland, Ohio, shows that an iron and steel plant in Canton will be a paying proposition, as there are several coal and iron mines in Kwangtung. Exploration of the coal mine in Dog's Teeth Cave on the Hunan-Kwangtung border has begun, while the mines in Wan Fu on the West River are rich in iron deposits.

Details of the contract are not published, although it is known that construction will not begin until early next year. Meanwhile the London firm has to make a detailed design.

A small deposit payment will be made by the provincial government, but all advances made by the London firm are to be repaid in six years. This is in the nature of a foreign loan approved by the National Government.

RAIN FATALITIES IN CANTON

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Apr. 30.

Three women were killed last evening when their houses in Lotus Pond Street in North-eastern suburb collapsed. Over a hundred are homeless as a result of the collapse of houses in consequence of the torrential rain.

An employee of the Yan Oi Charitable Institute fell into a pond outside of the government mint and was drowned. The torrential rain carried the body into the East River.

Many streets in Salkwan, Tungshan and the Little North Suburb were flooded by the downpour which fell from 4.30 p.m. to 6.30 p.m. In some of the low-lying areas, the water was as high as three feet. The floods subsided one hour after the rain had ceased falling.

Two men suffered from electric shocks, as an electric wire in Salkwan was blown down by the winds and rain. Owing to the rain, the temperature to-day was 72 degrees F.—the coolest April for many years.

OLYMPIC SOCCER SURPRISE

Nanking, Apr. 30.

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a soccer match here turned out this afternoon to watch the Olympic team in action.

Though mixed teams participated in the team with recognised second strings they surprised the crowd by defeating the team led by Lee Wai-tong by 3 goals to 2.

Prior to the match, Mr. Lu Chao, representing President Lin Sen, urged the soccer players who were abroad to behave and play in a manner displaying the best in Chinese civilisation.

AUSTRIAN FRONTIER ACTIVITY

Germany Denies Reports In Foreign Press

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Berlin, April 30.

The totally unfounded reports in the various foreign newspapers concerning the military preparations which Germany is alleged to be making on the Austrian frontier have created much indignation here. A semi-official statement characterises these rumours as "an attempt so malignant as it is clumsy to poison the political atmosphere."

The statement then goes on to say that the rumours in question furnish further proof that whereas Germany considers it her uppermost duty in the realm of foreign policy to endeavour to create a calmer political atmosphere in Europe, other quarters are trying in a most irresponsible manner to engender a feeling of unrest and insecurity.

The statement points out that a number of papers which launched these utterly baseless rumours had in the meanwhile contradicted them after making close investigation.

AUSTRIA ON GUARD

Vienna, April 29.

It is understood that the 5,000 Austrian troops stationed in the Tyrol at present are about 85 per cent. above the normal garrison requirements.

Two battalions of Styrian infantry have arrived at Ried, Upper Austria, near the German frontier.

Well-informed circles emphasise the movements of Austrian troops to the provinces adjoining Germany are not due to any fear of imminent trouble, but the international situation in Europe is regarded as such that aggravation of the crisis is possible at any moment. It is therefore thought necessary that Austria should be prepared for an emergency.

It is learned on high authority that the reinforcements are intended to remain in their present billets all spring and summer.

The reports that the movements of troops are due to an anticipated Heimwehr "putsch" in the Tyrol are officially declared to be baseless.

BERLIN ASSURANCE

Berlin, April 29.

The War Office to-day gave assurance that nothing unusual was happening this year in southern Bavaria, a Wilhelmstrasse official told "Reuter."

He said a battalion of Sharpshooters was holding ten days' manoeuvres in the neighbourhood of Garmisch, and sixty army sports leaders were attending training courses in the Bavarian Alps.

It was true, this spokesman said, that the peace-time garrisons in Bavaria were now bigger than before the introduction of compulsory military service, but there was no unusual concentration of fighting forces there.

Dr. Koo said: "The incalculable honour to be the first accredited Chinese Ambassador to France for elevation of the respective diplomatic missions to embassies is proof of the growing importance each of our Republics attach to their mutual relations."

The President replying said that the appointment was evidence of intention of consolidation of the confident relations existing for many years between the two republics. M. Lebrun added: "Your career and the role you have played at Geneva are certain proofs of the effective assistance your collaboration will bring to the common task of justice and peace whereon depend the security and prosperity of the nations."

MAYOR OF ATHENS AT HAMBURG

Ship Launching Ceremony

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Hamburg, April 30.

Unusually cordial was the reception given the Mayor of Athens, Kotzias, who arrived here to witness the launching and christening of the steamer Athens which is to be put on the service between Germany and Greece.

Answering the words of welcome, which Chief Burgomaster Krogman had tendered, Kotzias related the story between Poseidon and Pallas, which could do more for Athens. Pallas had planted an olive tree on the Akropolis, and "this olive tree still stands. I have brought one branch to Hamburg as symbol that Hamburg may strive."

He then handed Burgomaster Krogman a silver medal and a Greek flag as sign of the cultural attachment between the two peoples.

IMPERIAL GUARD SHATTERED

Wounded Survivors Tell The Story

POISON GAS USED AS LAST RESORT

Maichiao Battle Horrors

Addis Ababa, April 30. How a big scale gas attack by Italian war planes shattered the Imperial Guard and brought about the defeat of the Emperor's own troops was told by the wounded survivors of the battle of Maichiao who have returned to the capital.

The battle of Maichiao, a few miles south of Amba Alagi, was fought on March 31. The Emperor personally led a force of over 20,000 men. The defeat of this army was the turning point in the campaign.

"The first day," said a survivor, "we attacked and broke up the Italian line. The next day we inflicted further defeats on the Italians. The third day began well for us, but suddenly the sky was darkened by hundreds of aeroplanes which dropped bombs and asphyxiating blue gas."

"All our men who did not possess gas masks were instantly killed. Only a few who did possess them managed to escape with their lives."

MOUNTAIN OCCUPIED

Addis Ababa, Apr. 30. The members of the British ambulance unit report that Italian advance guards have captured the important strategic mountain of Tarmadur practically without opposition and are now advancing on Debra Braham, 70 miles from Addis Ababa.

Italian aeroplanes dived over the aerodrome at Addis Ababa and poured a hail of machine gun fire into the empty hangars.

AMBULANCE QUILTS

Addis Ababa, Apr. 30. The British ambulance unit which is erecting dressing stations near Debra Braham had to hurriedly return to the capital owing to the advance of the Italian forces, leaving a quantity of equipment behind.

It is understood that the British unit will take over the hospitals at Addis Ababa which are overcrowded with Abyssinian wounded.

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special. Rome, Apr. 29. Official Bulletin No. 198 states: "Motorised troops are advancing along the road from Dessie to Addis Ababa. Another column has waded across the Mofor river. On the Somali front, very active patrol movements are going on. The

AMBITION TO TAKE BUDAPEST

Peasant Movement Ends In Comedy

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special. Budapest, April 30. What had the appearance of becoming a serious political trouble, but subsequently turned out more resembling a comic opera was the so-called "Crossed Scythe Movement" whose adherents had set themselves a no smaller task than taking possession of Budapest on May Day.

The whole movement originated with the Hungarian right wing movement "Boesooeremy" after having again and again been defeated in Parliament. Most of the adherents were peasants in distant provinces or youthful unemployed in the towns.

The "arms" discovered after the intention of marching on Budapest had been found, out consisted mostly of table knives, while the uniforms were second-hand officers' outfits.

U.S. ENQUIRY

Washington, Apr. 29. The immediate establishment of a special board to investigate seamen's allegations of ill-treatment and ill-equipped ships operating on the Atlantic seaboard, was announced by the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Daniel C. Roper, to-day.

Libyan sections in the Salu valley have defeated the Abyssinians and scattered their forces. The leader of the Malingur Ogaden tribes, Ugasso Mohammed and many other notables from Somaliland have placed themselves at the disposal of the Italians and signified their willingness to bear arms to aid Italy. Despite unfavourable weather conditions, the activities of the Italian army are active as ever.

Transoceanic News Service. DRAAMA NEARING END. Asmara, Apr. 29. The last of the drama on the North front in apparently approaching its climax, according to reports from Italian sources. Delicate events are scheduled to take place not later than next week. Even should Ras Nasibu succeed in holding his present positions for some time, his fate is sealed the moment the Italian troops take Addis Ababa.

The Italian authorities admit that neither Dagabur nor Sassa-baneh is yet occupied.

ETHIOPIAN OPTIMISM. Addis Ababa, Apr. 29. A distinctly optimistic tone is felt in the report on the general state of the campaign given by Abyssinian sources, especially from the South front.

Although the Italians threw the full force of all their military resources into the battle, airplanes, motorised divisions and tanks, the effect was in comparison negligible.

No clear picture of what is taking place on the North front seems to be available. On Wednesday Italian airplanes paid a second visit to Addis Ababa, the object being to make observations.

Transoceanic News Service. CATHEDRAL IN DANGER. Venice Anxiety About St. Mark's.

Venice, Apr. 30. There are disquieting reports about the central vault of St. Mark's Cathedral. When mosaics were removed cracks were discovered likely to affect the arches supporting the central dome, due to subsidence of pillars.

Repairs are urgently beginning again, encumbering the cathedral with scaffolding which was only removed last spring after twenty eight years of restoration work on the north front.

ITALIAN NOTE TO LEAGUE. Geneva, Apr. 29. Another note was received by the League Secretariat from Italy, concerning the bombardment of Hara, and it is stated that the Abyssinian allegation that Hara was entirely demilitarised and undefended is utterly untrue.

The Italian Command-in-Chief, had before making the attack, ascertained that there were great quantities of ammunition and even machine-guns massed in the city. At all events it had been established that the Egyptian Lazaret and Red Cross Station had only been hit accidentally.

Coffin Borne On Gun Carriage

ANCIENT CUSTOMS OBSERVED

Amidst impressive ceremony, Egyptian sailors from the Royal yacht carried King Fuad's coffin from Abdin Palace and placed it on a gun carriage drawn by six black horses, accompanied by salutes of guns fired from the square where Egyptian cavalry were massed.

The cortege moved along the route, packed by a vast crowd of silent spectators to Elrital Mosque, where the body was interred. Seven bulls were slaughtered on the pavement according to custom dating to days of the Pharaohs and the meat distributed to the poor.

The procession, which was two miles long, included Royal Princes, diplomatic officers and cabinet members, and a number of planes flew overhead.

Simultaneously a monster procession took place in Alexandria attended by 10,000 people. In accordance with Egyptian custom, all trams and shops were fully lighted by electricity.

BRITISH NAVY PLANS OUTLINED. INCREASE OF THIRTY EIGHT VESSELS DURING THIS YEAR. London, April 30.

Presenting the supplementary naval estimates, Lord Monseil explains that the programme in pursuance of the White Paper policy of March 3 and continuance of expenditure, necessitated expenditure in connection with the Italo Ethiopian situation. Altogether the 1936 programme will increase the Navy by thirty eight vessels in addition to smaller craft.

The two new cruisers will be of the Southampton class and three smaller ones probably of 5,000 tons. Destroyers will be of the Tribal class.

Provision also has been made for important improvements in stock of ammunition and fuel, essential stores and equipment of the fleet. It was revealed that the fleet will be equipped with new type of aircraft, also additional anti-aircraft

Transoceanic News Service. COMMUNISM IN FRANCE. Marshal Petain's Warning. "Hong Kong Daily Press" Special.

Paris, Apr. 30. An earnest warning against the Communist peril threatening France from within as a result of the Franco-Soviet pact has been uttered by the veteran Marshal Petain in an interview published by "Le Journal."

Numerous people, said the Marshal, who formerly opposed Communism have joined its ranks since the conclusion of the Franco-Soviet treaty which has produced the effect of "legitimising" Communist ideas.

Internationalist communism, according to Petain, threatens the rights and liberties of every French citizen.

On the other hand the Marshal expressed high appreciation of the Fire Cross movement which he stressed aims at preserving the integrity of family as a foundation of social life and raising the moral and intellectual standard of French youth.

The Franco-Soviet pact is blamed for the success of the Communists in the elections. Marshal Petain declared that in offering our hand to the Soviet, France was also accepting the Communists' doctrine.

The leader of the Communist Party stated that the party does not intend to support the Left Wing, but support the Popular Front programme of the Government.

Transoceanic News Service. SWISS FRANC FLUCTUATES. Storm Centre Of Bear Attack. London, Apr. 30.

The Swiss franc became the storm centre of a bear attack today, the origin of which at present is mystifying to the "London Exchange Market." Spot francs weakened from 15.21 to 15.24, while discount one month forward widened from three to six, and three months 12 to 16 centimes.

Among a mass of diverging views the most likely explanation appears to be that French capital, disturbed by the latest Central European anxieties, is being withdrawn to Paris for conversion into sterling.

Other quarters assert that New York has been selling Swiss francs heavily.

Pressure against the French franc is not large and consequently British control is able to maintain the rate with comparative ease.

The keenest satisfaction is voiced by the soldiers and workers of the Italian Army in Ethiopia at the decision of Signor Mussolini, that any participant in the present war, who wishes to settle in any part of the conquered territory, may do so after the war, and will receive substantial assistance.

Many soldiers and workmen have already signified their intention of settling in Abyssinia, partly for commerce, and partly for agriculture.

Transoceanic News Service. GERMAN PEACE PROPOSALS. British Request For More Information. London, Apr. 29.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, told the House of Commons to-day that the Government hoped to get into touch with the German Government at an early date in order to obtain elucidation of certain points in the German peace proposals, submitted to the Locarno Powers when Berlin refused the earlier suggested terms for a settlement, after the reoccupation of the Rhineland by Nazi troops.

The coming questionnaire to Germany has been considered by the Cabinet already, but a further meeting will be necessary to give it final approval.

The British Government's communication is likely to be sent to Berlin either Friday or Saturday. While it is now apparent that Great Britain has no disagreement with France and Belgium over the contents of the questionnaire, it is understood that Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, has insisted that the questions be put in his own way.

This is interpreted to mean that the questions will be conciliatory in construction, but will nevertheless leave no doubt regarding the issues upon which Britain needs clarification.

It is understood the questions will generally follow those forecast on April 24, but it is still uncertain whether the question of Germany's former colonies will be raised. It is believed that Britain will ask:

1. For assurance that future treaties will not be unilaterally denounced?

2. Whether Herr Adolf Hitler's proposals for bilateral non-aggression pacts be within or outside the League of Nations framework?

3. Would Germany return to the League unconditionally?

4. Is Herr Hitler willing to refer the alleged incompatibility of the Locarno Treaty and Franco-Soviet Pact to the International Court at the Hague?

5. How does Herr Hitler suggest that the nations should end the armaments race?

6. Under what form does Germany conceive equality in colonial rights?

Transoceanic News Service. TENSION GROWS IN PALESTINE. Taxpayers Roused By Arab Press. APPEAL TO ABDULLAH. Sympathy Enlisted From Arab Sovereigns. ("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special). Jerusalem, April 30.

The tension throughout Palestine shows no signs of abating. The Arab press strongly recommends taxpayers to strike against the mandatory government. The Mufti, who is the religious head of the Moslems and also the President of the Moslem Supreme Council, has addressed a letter to the British High Commissioner in which he charges the administration as being biased and indifferent to the Arab cause.

The central strike committee intends to send a delegation to Amir Abdullah of Transjordan to inform him of the Arab grievances. It also proposes to address telegrams to the Arab sovereigns in Iraq, Yemen Saudi-Arabia and Egypt, as well as to the Shah of Iran, the King of Afghanistan and to Kemal Attaturk in order to enlist their sympathies.

New efforts are being made to present to paralyse shipping in the ports of Haifa and to induce workers in railways and shops to join the strike.

Acts of violence continue to be reported from various parts of the country.

At Tiberias the Bedouins attacked some Jewish farmers, wounding four persons. Some bomb explosions which, however, did little damage, occurred at Haifa.

The entire local strike committee have been arrested at Nazareth, while at Jerusalem the police were attacked by 200 Arab demonstrators and 18 persons, including four policemen, were injured in the resultant exchange of shots.

All Jews residing in the Murrara district of Jerusalem have transferred their residence to the Jewish quarter in order to escape from the constant assault by the Arabs.

The strike movement is steadily spreading to the north where there were many reports of motor cars with Jewish occupants being stopped in the open roads.

At Jaffa the store of a Jewish motor car dealer was wrecked by the strikers and all ships bringing new Jewish immigrants are compelled to land them at Haifa.

Transoceanic News Service. POLICE USE FIREARMS. Jerusalem, April 30.

An Arab demonstration was held outside the gates of the city and the police had to fire in order to disperse the demonstrators, resulting in injuries to Arabs and police.

Jewish reports state that five bombs were thrown by Arabs at Haifa, causing damage to a house and motor shop but with no casualties.

Two British police officers were slightly injured when dispersing a demonstration here.

The Colonial Secretary was questioned in the House of Commons on the Arab delegation he has invited to come from Palestine to state their views regarding the Constitution.

Mr. J. H. Thomas said he understood the leaders of the Arab parties had informed the High Commissioner they did not think it would be in the public interest for the delegation to come at the moment. He saw no reason for withdrawing the invitation, but until the delegation had come and he had considered its representations, he was not in a position to make a further statement.

Transoceanic News Service. WORKERS TAKE UPPER HAND. Spanish Brewery Under Control. ("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special). Madrid, April 30.

The workers of the Agular Brewery, the largest in Spain, having failed to achieve their object concerning a change in the staff by direct negotiations, occupied the whole brewery building for two days, and this also failing to get them to their goal, they took over the brewery entirely on Wednesday. The brewery wagons that carry the beer to the city customers now carry banners with the slogan "Union of Proletarian Brothers"—the watchword of the October revolutionaries.

Workers have formed to the number of 400 a Committee to run the works and pay the dispossessed owners a rent for the buildings, machines and other outfits as well as a percentage of the profits. Over the works is a sign in large letters: "Brewery now in possession of the workers."

Transoceanic News Service. FOOD SUPPLIES IN ENGLAND. Investigation Called. London, Apr. 29.

Food supplies, both in their health and defence aspects, were the subject of House of Commons questions to the Prime Minister to-day.

Mr. Baldwin stated that a special committee, under the chairmanship

He assured another member that the important question of nutrition was receiving due consideration in a review now in progress of the problem of food production and supplies.

Transoceanic News Service. CONFESSION BY STUDENTS. Abduction Of Renee Houston. London, April 29.

Fifteen students of Edinburgh University are stated to have confessed to having participated in the kidnapping of the comedienne, Renee Houston, so Pat Ahern, Renee's husband, has been told by the Principal of the University, Sir Thomas Holland.

He was also told that rectorial privileges would be withdrawn from the students concerned.

Renee was carried off after her performance in a state of undress, by a gang of students who first tied up the theatre door-keeper. Others demanded £25 "for charity" from the manager of the theatre to guarantee Renee's safe return.

The actress, suffering from a sprained ankle and bruises, joined in the plea for leniency for the offenders made by the proprietor of the revue in which she is appearing, and by the manager of the theatre.

It is stated the police take a most serious view of the occurrence, however, and are contemplating prosecution.

SURFBOARD RACING

A Lighter And Better Board Introduced

(By "ADREM")

Surfboard racing, with its many pleasures will come into its own in the Colony to-morrow, when several enthusiasts will brave the still chilly waters at Repulse Bay, to try out their new "streamlined hollow surfboards."

A REJUVENATED PASTIME

Following a successful race meeting which was held at Repulse Bay two seasons ago, "surfboard racing," the "sport of Hawaiian Kings," fell into temporary abeyance, but this season promises to see them again in their various colours, sported at several popular beaches in the Colony.

It is claimed that the surfboards with their hollow streamlined construction, are infinitely lighter and easier to handle than those first introduced to the Colony, and should therefore appeal to a larger clientele. A child it is said, can easily manipulate the boards with as much ease as a 230 lbs. "he man."

An idea that should find a large following is free board aquaplaning from the back of a moving vessel, which is claimed by those in the know, to be definitely more exciting than from the customary boards now in use.

The development of the new Streamlined Hollow surfboard and its introduction to the millions of swimmers and bathers throughout the world, has brought this ancient sport into the lime-light as a pastime of ever increasing popularity.

There is no finer exercise to be enjoyed, no better waist trimmer or muscle developer to be found. As an aid in life saving and the physical development of growing boys and girls, it commands respect the world over.

VARIETY OF FUN AND THRILLS

The many forms of pleasure afforded by a Hollow Surfboard and the variety of uses to which it can be adapted are too numerous to mention here. Paddling a board may be enjoyed wherever people swim. To glide swiftly over the water under your own arm power is a pleasing thrill. About seven miles an hour can be attained in smooth water.

A small sail or common beach umbrella can be rigged on the board. With a fast motor boat to tow you, free board aquaplaning will prove a most exciting and healthy sport.

The Hollow Surfboard is invaluable for rescue work. It will carry two people at a good speed; will maintain a dozen men afloat. A twelve year old child can launch the B-B Streamlined Surfboard and save his playmate or even a man from drowning.

FAVoured BY THE CHAMPIONS

During the Colony Surfboard Championships recently held in Hong Kong, three B-B boards were among the nineteen entered in the six events. Six records were broken that day and all of the winners paddled B-B Streamlined Hollow Surfboards.

Miss Doris Hunt, of Hong Kong, champion girl surfboard paddler says: "The B-B board is light, fast and delightfully easy to handle."

Lovers of water sports everywhere agree that the new Hollow Surfboard has given the world a great new sport, a new pleasure and a wonderfully thrilling exercise.

The Hollow Surfboard has been adopted not only on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts of America by the Life Guards, but at nearly all of the lake resorts as well. The ease and speed with which they can be handled is the point that won them the choice over the old and somewhat cumbersome life boat.

Surfboard Water Polo, Sailing the Surfboard, Tandem Paddling and Paddling Races as well as the world famous sport of surfing are just a few of the aquatic entertainments to be enjoyed now that the New Streamlined Hollow board has made its debut.

H. K. RIFLE ASSOCIATION

First Annual Prize Meeting

INCLEMENT WEATHER MARS SHOOTING

The First Annual Prize Meeting of the Hong Kong Rifle Association opened yesterday at the Army Rifle Range in Kowloon City.

Inclement weather curtailed the first day's programme. The conditions in the morning rendered shooting impossible. It cleared up somewhat after lunch and in a rather heavy atmosphere, with little or no wind the Company matches commenced.

It must be explained that the programme, covering in all five days, is divided into two parts, namely, (1) The "Services" Meeting lasting up till Saturday and (2) The "Bisley" meeting from Saturday till Monday.

Yesterday therefore, was part of the "Services" programme and the majority of the events are Company events.

Some excellent shooting was seen and in the only company match that was completed yesterday, namely the Team Revolver match, the 1st Bn. the Royal Ulster Rifles aggregated 264 points out of a possible 360. This is a remarkable score, as the usual winning figure is nearer that of the 2nd Bn. the East Lancashire Regiment—222, which score gave them second place.

THE RESULTS

ENGLAND CAPTAIN FOR TESTS

G. O. Allen's Chance

(By THOMAS MOULT)

London, April 17.

I understand that G. O. Allen, the Middlesex cricketer, will be able to play regularly during the coming summer.

In cricket circles the choice of England's captain for the Tests in Australia next winter is already being discussed, and I think that if Allen proves his fitness he will be invited.

E. R. T. Holmes of Surrey, who led the M.C.C. team which returned this week from Australia and New Zealand, is likely to be selected as vice-captain.

The All-India team arrive in England on Monday, and for the first time in cricket history three Tests will be played—at Lord's, Manchester and the Oval. But the season will be regarded as a prelude to the Tests in Australia, and the form of our young players will be eagerly watched.

Youth, indeed, has a great opportunity. Except for about eight players—G. O. Allen, R. E. S. Wyatt, E. R. T. Holmes, Sutcliffe, Hammond, Leyland, and Verity or James Langridge—the composition of the side is likely to remain uncertain until the summer is well advanced.

tomorrow and thence to Prague for the Czechoslovakian championships. I am due home on Saturday, April 25—Cup final day at Wembley—and would like to see the Arsenal with whom I trained, win the Cup. But I may not be there in time.

HOME FOOTBALL

Arsenal Beaten By Wanderers

London, April 29. Arsenal's reaction to their English Cup success was reflected in to-day's match at Bolton, where they lost to the Wanderers by the odd goal in three.

Fulham also suffered defeat at Bradford against the City, but Manchester United obtained two very valuable points at Bury.

As a result they require but one point from their last match on Saturday to be certain of the championship. Like Charlton they have already made promotion certain.

The results as cabled by "Reuter" follow:

FIRST DIVISION

Bolton 2 Arsenal 1

SECOND DIVISION

Bradford C. 1 Fulham 0

Bury 2 Manchester U. 3

THIRD DIVISION (South)

Bristol C. 2 Crystal P. 0

DEATH OF B. TREMLIN

A Keen Cricketer

London, April 15.

B. Tremelin, whose death is announced at the age of fifty-eight, did valuable work for Essex as a medium-pace bowler before the war.

Tremelin was born at Bristol on September 18, 1877, and first played for Essex in 1900, being contemporary with P. A. Perrin, J. W. H. T. Douglas, W. Mead, and C. P. Buckenham; before he retired in 1919 he took 452 wickets at an average of 28.05.

He did not become a regular member of the eleven until 1905, but then he took 99 wickets for 27.10 and was the best bowler in the side. He had a big share in each of the wins over Derbyshire, taking ten wickets at Leyton and nine at Glossop. He was dropped from the team in 1906, when W. Mead returned to the county, and did not play again until 1910, when he took 74 wickets at an average of 19.01 runs.

His best season was in 1914, he victims numbering 101 at an average of 28 runs per wicket. In that year he also had his highest batting aggregate, scoring 416 runs for an average of nearly 21.

According to the draw, two singles matches are due to be played on Friday. Kho Sin-kie plays Boussus, while Guy Cheng meets Destremereau.

London, Apr. 9. The date of the Halford Hewitt Cup competition is likely to be changed to avoid such discomforts as were experienced by golfers in late matches on Friday, which finished in darkness, and, if practicable, to utilise daylight saving to play the final on a Sunday after tea.

Various proposals are under consideration. The first week-end of May seemed suitable until someone recollected that would automatically debar undergraduates and schoolmasters.

This is quite the most popular as well as the biggest golf competition of the year. It would be a success wherever it was held because every competitor would make any sacrifice to play in it. All the same it must clearly take place during the school and university vacation.

A DISTANCE RUNNER

Great Britain has for long failed to produce long distance track runners of the highest class. Judging by the performance of W. E. Eaton, the 28-year-old Salford Harrier at the White City Stadium—he was within fifteen seconds of Nurmi's world record for the ten miles—we would seem at last to have found a real champion.

Unfortunately, there is no Olympic championship at an equivalent metric distance. The nearest is the 10,000 metres which is just over six miles.

Can a runner do himself justice on the track in the summer after a hard cross country season? Frank Close thinks not. He gave cross-country running a miss this season to concentrate on track training.

It will be extremely interesting to see what happens when he, Eaton and J. A. Burns, runner-up to Eaton, meet in the A.A.A. six miles championship in July.

RUGBY LEAGUE FINAL

Leeds Rugby League team which will meet Warrington in the Cup Final at Wembley on Saturday week are following Arsenal's example by going to Brighton for a final "tune-up."

They will stay at the hotel which is the headquarters of the Yorkshire cricket team when they play Sussex at Hove.

At Headingley, where the Leeds team play, the great main stand looks out on one side to the Test cricket ground and on the other at the football pitch.

NEXT YEAR'S B. I. F.

Big Application For Space

Although the British Industries Fair closed only at the end of last month it is announced that provisional applications for space for the 1937 Fair already amount to 561,800 square feet.

Figures supplied by the Department of Overseas Trade show that 689 exhibitors have made provisional application for 351,800 square feet in the London sections of the Fair.

The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, which organises the Engineering and Hardware Section of the Fair in close collaboration with the Department of Overseas Trade, announces that definite bookings for the 1937 Fair in Birmingham amount to 60,000 square feet to 147 exhibitors, while the reservations made by letter account for a further 150,000 square feet.

The 1937 Fair will, as this year, be held simultaneously in London and Birmingham.

tion, while prominent organisations of this body are also functioning in the United States and Canada. The R.A.O.B. has functioned in the Colony for many years, the first premises being situated in Duddell Street. A move was later made to Wanchai.

In the main club room, which is spacious and has a large and roomy bar, the colour scheme is pale blue. The decoration of the walls, with pictures etc., was not yet quite complete, but when finished should add much to the conviviality of the surroundings for members of this world famous organisation.

NEXT BIG FIGHT

Jack McAvoy started to-day to turn for his fight with Jack Petersen at the Empress Stadium, Earl's Court, on April 23. He prefers Rochdale to London.

These are the two shy and silent men of the ring. Neither has much use for talk, or for parading to the baffle of trumpets or the beats of drums. Both are, apparently, a little bewildered when they emerge from their native air. So they train at home in as near to privacy as may be secured.

All sorts of rumours have been flying around concerning McAvoy—his hand injury and his general fitness. People in close touch with the man from Lancashire say this is all nonsense; that McAvoy is half as good again a fighter as when we saw him here, that his lame hand is as hard as ever, and that he has not assumed an inferiority complex—whatever that may be—as reaction to his failure to become a world champion.

RADLEY APPOINTMENT

Mr. E. H. Moss has been appointed a master at Radley and will at once take over the cricket there. This unusual haste is due to the taking up of a partnership at Bliton Grange by Mr. R. S. Machin, a fact mentioned some weeks ago.

During the last few years Machin has produced (if that be the word) some good Radley sides. It Moss can impart the ingredients of his own style there will be many more; and at least I am confident he will encourage his charges to hit the ball.

There is a great deal too much pawky public school cricket. And I am not sure Eton are not the worst offenders of all.

MALVERN CRICKET

Meanwhile, at Malvern, Moss's old school, the cricket passes from the hands of Mr. C. A. F. Fiddian-Green to those of Mr. F. C. H. Chalk, the Oxford captain of 1934.

Here, again, one need not doubt that youth will be brought up in the right paths. I suppose that among the stylists produced during the last ten years Chalk stands very nearly at the top.

Furthermore, he is an exceptionally fine felder anywhere between the radius of cover-point and the deep.

I imagine his control of Malvern cricket will bring joy to the hearts of O.M.s whose memory is long enough to dwell on the former greatnesses, of the Fosters, the Days, W. H. B. Evans and D. J. Knight.

CHINESE LAWN TENNIS

For the first time in lawn tennis history China will send a Davis Cup team to Europe. The four men, according to J. H. Ho, resident in London, may speak so many languages or dialects that they will find it easier to make English, which they all know, the official language of the party.

W. C. Choy was at Cambridge. He is from Hong Kong. Gordon Lum, veteran of the team at 30, was born in Australia, but comes immediately from Shanghai. S. H. Kho is from Java; G. Cheng from Shanghai.

I fear that Chinese interest in the Cup will end with the first round—against France.

THE INTERNATIONAL

The England-Scotland Soccer game had all the ingredients—cultured football which was entertaining, plenty of fighting spirit which was thrilling, and a penalty kick which provided the drama; and something to argue about.

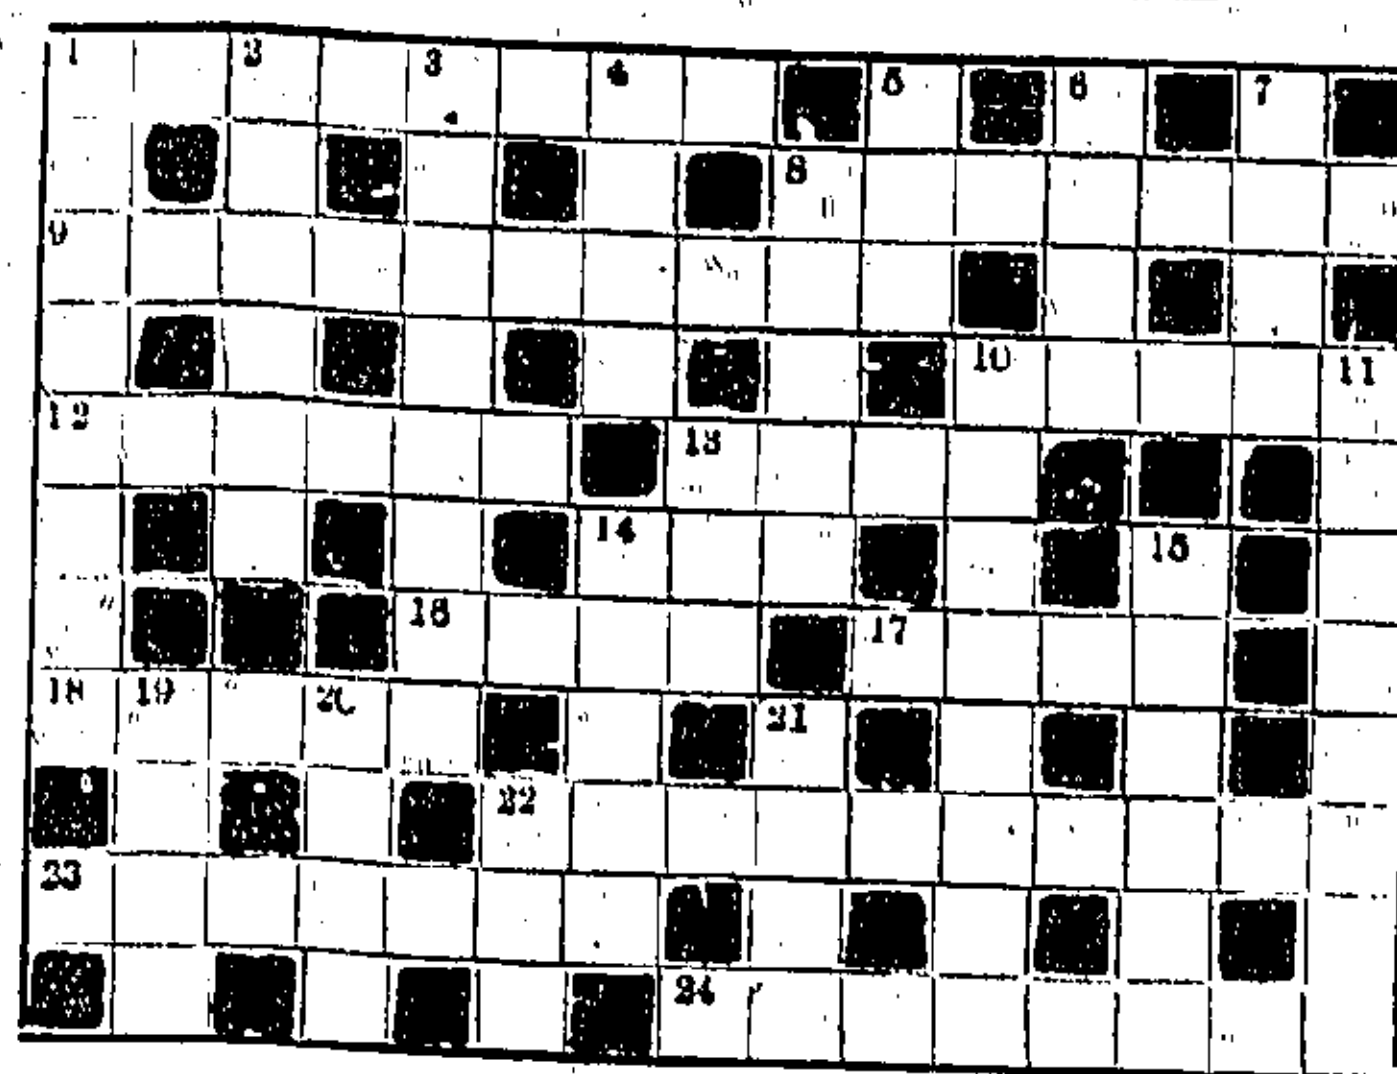

I agree with the Scots who asserted—with a vigour which suggested they were not too sure of it—that there was no question about the justice of the decision.

It is a bit reckless to assert that Crum must have scored if Hapgood had not fetched him down. Better chances than this were missed in the match.

The Scots expected to lose. They should have been beaten. The English made their opportunities and squandered them.

I had my impression that Barker is the greatest centre half-back in the game confirmed—a lot of the Scots agreed—and remain convinced. That Bastin is more dangerous as a wing forward. It is a pity this England team, with one or two exceptions, are too old to be kept together much longer. I wish all the Soccer games I see were as entertaining as this one.

New Premises In Queen's Building

The new premises and lodge room of the Royal Antislavery Order of Buffaloes, otherwise known as the R.A.O.B., were opened yesterday, following a brief ceremony of consecrating the lodge room. The new premises are situated in Queen's Building, and there was a goodly turnout of members for this unique service, which marks a fresh turn in the activities of this body.

The club is divided into two rooms, one of which is the lodge. Here the ceremony of consecrating the room was performed by Brother F. C. Brimblecombe, K.O.M., P.G.P., who was supported by Brother C. Wilson, R.O.H., P.G.S., and general lodge officers. Only members of the R.A.O.B. are permitted to partake in the ceremony, which lasted a few minutes. Following the consecration, the lodge room was declared open for future lodge meetings.

Prior to the ceremony, a representative of the "Daily Press" was shown "the holy of holies," and adequately carpeted, with windows draped with royal blue curtains, a tastefully decorated room was seen, at the far end of which a high backed chair with desk in front was prominently positioned.

It was explained that the fundamental idea behind the organisation was "to give and not to take." No personal gain was tolerated by members. The headquarters of the R.A.O.B. at Harrowgate in Yorkshire was the point from which member lodges branched all over the world. At present the strength of the local organisation was about one hundred members, who contributed mainly to an orphanage for the children of deceased members. These children are sent to school with all expenses paid, until a recognised school certificate is obtained, or in the case of particularly bright children, their education is looked after until a degree is attained.

Another scheme supported by the R.A.O.B. is a convalescent home for members and their dependents. Every Colony in the British Empire boasts an R.A.O.B. organisation.
